NaughtyBert's Top 5 Tips For You - You could have saved hours of your time and many pounds of your money buying a plumber when you could have just found out on your own.

TIP 1 Use Google to Look Up a Plumber This may take a little more work than simply picking up the phone to a plumber. If you have the knowledge, you might be able to save some money by doing a little bit of your own research. Use Google, Bing, or other Web search engines to conduct an internet search for a plumber. This will give you all the information you need plus reviews on plumbers from people just like you. TIP 2 Keep The Plumber On Hand While you may not want to have your home's water supply turned off due to a plumbing issue, you should at least be aware of the fact that plumbers don't come free. If your plumber charges more than a few dollars per hour, keep him on hand. If you don't think you'll need his services in the near future, you could request that he simply turn off your water supply. This way, you won't be stuck with an expensive bill at a later time.

TIP 3 Pay The Plumber At The End Of The Job It can be quite easy to forget to pay the plumber at the end of a job. In fact, you might pay the plumber at the end of a job without thinking twice, and then later on receive a bill in the mail for the same amount.

If this happens
